

Enhancements

Copy Page

You can now copy any web page to make a duplicate of it. This is especially useful if you want to create an alternate version of a page that you might want to use temporarily. For example, you can duplicate your current home page, drastically alter the layout and content for an end of year announcement and publish the page as the new home page. Later on, you'll still have your old page to use and bring back when the time for the temporary page is done. Another useful way to use copy page is to create a default layout for your pages and they copy the layout page whenever you want a new page. That way you already have the layout and maybe some of the content set.

Fixes

Video Blocks

The May 2019 Chrome update is not compatible with the way that many websites use style sheets and this has resulted in video blocks not displaying properly on certain themes. We have changed the way that video blocks display content and this is resolved.
